Transport layer security (TLS)

Return to Glossary

Transport layer security (TLS) is a protocol that provides communication security between client/server applications that communicate with each other over the Internet. It enables privacy, integrity and protection for the data that's transmitted between different nodes on the Internet. TLS is a successor to the secure_sockets_layer protocol.

Source: Transport layer security (TLS)

From:
https://omgwiki.org/ddsf/ - DDS Foundation Wiki

Permanent link:
https://omgwiki.org/ddsf/doku.php?id=ddsf:public:guidebook:06_append:glossary:t:tls&rev=1600793628

Last update: 2020/09/22 12:53