

Registered Jack-45 (RJ45)

Return to Glossary

Registered Jack-45 (RJ45) is the eight-pin RJ45 connector is a standardized interface which often connects a computer to a Local Area Network \(LAN\). This type of connector was originally developed for telephone communications but is now used in a range of applications.

Source: <https://www.comms-express.com/infozone/article/rj45-connectors-registered-jack-45/>

From:

<https://omgwiki.org/dido/> - DIDO Wiki

Permanent link:

https://omgwiki.org/dido/doku.php?id=dido:public:ra:xapend:xapend.a_glossary:r:rj45&rev=1642425481

Last update: 2022/01/17 08:18